Lista Alfabética de los Nombres

de Países, Naciones, Provincias, Mares, Pueblos, Ríos, Montañas, Etc.

QUE NO SE ESCRIBEN DEL MISMO MODO EN INGLÉS QUE EN ESPAÑOL

CON el objeto de hacerla lo más corta posible, no han sido comprendidos en ella los que tienen una misma ortografía en ambas lenguas, y los que pueden ser traducidos fácilmente con sólo mudar su terminación extranjera en la castellana; para lo cual se deberán observar las reglas siguientes.

Los acabados en burgh y borough que no se hallen en la lista, se traducirán mudando solamente estas terminaciones en la castellana burgo, como Augsburg, Augsburgo; Petersburg, Petersburgo; Hamburg, Hamburgo; Cobourg, Coburgo; y Peterborough, Peterburgo, etc.

Hay muchos nombres geográficos universalmente conocidos que terminan en e, y se traducen con sólo cambiar la e, en a, como Europe, Europa; Rome, Roma, etc.

Los ingleses suelen designar algunos de los condados en que dividen la Gran Bretaña por medio de la terminación shire añadida al nombre del condado, distrito o provincia, como Derbyshire, que se traducirá El condado, distrito o provincia de Derby; Yorkshire, El condado de York, etc.

NOTA. - Los adjetivos derivados de los nombres propios se hallarán en sus respectivos lugares en el texto de este diccionario.

Lista Alfabética de los Nombre Propios de Personas

QUE SE USAN ABREVIADOS FAMILIARMENTE EN INGLÉS, CON SUS EQUIVALENTES EN CASTELLANO

De casi todos los equivalentes se pueden formar diminutivos o nombres familiares en castellano añadiéndoles una de estas terminaciones; ito, ico, illo. Dichos equivalentes pierden la letra final si es vocal, y mudan la o en a para los femeninos; y en los acabados en co o ca se convierten estas sílabas en qu; v. g. Francisco, Francisquito; Francisca, Francisquita; por esto sólo se insertan los que tienen un nombre irregular además del regular.
